PROOF

That The Washington Times Has the Largest Daily Circulation of Any Washington Newspaper

A certificate of circulation from the Association of American Advertisers is naturally the most convincing evidence possible to be obtained, for advertisers are interested in discovering the actual sales and in uncovering any misrepresentations. This Association has as its membership n...y of the largest general advertisers in this country, and makes a special practice of sending its own examiners to the principal newspapers in order to learn their circulation and standing. The Times threw open its books and every other channel of information to the examiner, as it is always ready to do to every interested person. The certificate reproduced above is a duplicate of the one sent to every member of the Association of American Advertisers as a result of the examination. The Association's definition of circulation referred to in the certificate, is "the number of copies actually distributed, excluding all returned copies and waste."

LOSSES IN COTTON.

It is estimated that at least 2,000,000 bales of cotton are lost throughout the South every year because of frost and an exattered cotton left in the field by the pickers. According to a correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, a machine has been invented, called the cotton separator, which will save nearly all this loss.

If you have lived in the National Capital long enough to c 11 yourself a settled resident you will. And if you remember the play you will certainly recall a pretty little girl who played "Minnie" in that production at a local theater that has since then changed its name three times. Tomorrow's Sunday Times will offer a full page interview with that girl, who is now a famous woman in the theatrical world. She played an engagement at a local theater during the past week.
